Biographical history: Wilson, Miss H. M. (d.c1992)
Served as a school teacher in at the Arab High School at Bir Zeit during the Arab Rebellion 1938-1939. In her correspondence to the Archive in 1968 Miss Wilson notes that the typescript was ‘based on my diary for the year 1938 (September) to 1939 (June) when I was teaching at the Arab High School at Bir Zeit, Palestine. The Arabs at that time were in revolt against the British Mandatory government, on account of its Jewish policy. Bir Zeit is a village six miles north of Ramallah. During that year the British government in our neighbourhood ceased to function, for a time, as the rebels took over. In correspondence with friends in England I found that people in England had little idea of what was actually going on in Palestine. So I kept this detailed diary, and on returning to England at the outbreak of World War II (autumn 1939) I typed out a narrative version and tried to get it published. No publisher would take it, because – they told me – it contained things derogatory to the British troops, and such things could not be publicized in wartime. So I waited and tried again when the war was over. I was then told that these matters were out of date and nobody would be interested any more.’ Miss Wilson also noted that ‘unfortunately I have not kept the actual diary from which it is taken. But it is a true account; only the names of people have been changed.’ Miss Wilson died circa 1992.
