George Edwards was born in 1903 in Sutton, Surrey which is now called the London Borough of Sutton and lived there all his life. He was the second eldest of 10 children and he and four of his brothers fought in World War Two, all survived the war. George Edwards was a skilled amateur photographer, and engineer. He was married to Annie (Nan) nee Burdfield and they had one son, John, who was killed in a motorcycle accident in London in the 1970's. He was a Church Warden for the church of St Nicholas in Sutton and worked for the Gas Board. After retirement his hobbies were breeding budgerigars and growing vegetables in his garden. He served in the Royal Engineers throughout the war which he spent in Libya, Egypt, Syria and Palestine. He was associated with R.E.M.E. 1 Base workshop, at some time according to an undated inscription on a tankard presented to him by the Corporals Club there. He was a very kind and tolerant man. He died in 1988.
