|---|--|---------------|-----------|
| 1 | Travels with a Camel | 1966,
2011 | 1 booklet |
| | ‘Travels with a Camel’ gives an account of a 6 week trip in 1965 from Dhofar to Ibri with a party of Harasis and Bait Kathir tribesmen and camels. The account consists of 10 chapters (totalling 129 pages) and is illustrated with photographs taken by Michael Butler. In the back of the account there are currency lists, camel prices, tribe divisions and a map of the route. The account includes chapters on meeting the reclusive Sultan of Muscat Oman Sayyed Said and getting his personal approval to travel. Butler also writes of why he had chosen to travel with the Harasis and Bait Kathir tribes and how learning and understand their customs was one of the most important aspects of his journey; as were discussions on religion, tribal raiding and feuding. The account also describes the art of camel trekking and the survival techniques used by the Harasis and Bait while travelling the desert areas. Butler describes the many different tribes’ people he meets on the journey, their rituals and lifestyles that differ from his own. He also describes one of his objectives for the trek being the observation and data collecting of the Oryx. He describes the life and habits of camels and how in the search for water for camels goes beyond their own food needs. | | |
