

Is the EU Doomed?

Jan Zielonka

University of Oxford

“Jan Zielonka is one of the most original and sophisticated observers of European politics. So when he expresses disillusion with both the EU and its Member States we should pay attention to where he thinks we are heading.”

Christopher Hill, Sir Patrick Sheehy Professor of International Relations, Cambridge University

“A provocative and thoughtful book which comes at a critical moment for European integration.”

Lionel Barber, Editor of the Financial Times

“Zielonka offers a new and refreshing vision of Europe's future - one that chimes perfectly with the EU's motto 'United in Diversity'”.

Giuliano Amato, Former Prime Minister of Italy

“Jan Zielonka's brilliant analysis of European disintegration is packed with big ideas that are elegantly expressed... This is a must-read book for anyone who cares about the future of Europe.”

Mark Leonard, Director of the European Council on Foreign Relations

The European Union is in crisis. Crippled by economic problems, political brinkmanship, and institutional rigidity, the EU faces an increasingly uncertain future.

In this compelling essay, leading scholar of European politics, Jan Zielonka argues that although the EU will only survive in modest form - deprived of many real powers - Europe as an integrated entity will grow stronger. Integration, he contends, will continue apace because of European states' profound economic interdependence, historic ties and the need for political pragmatism. A revitalized Europe led by major cities, regions and powerful NGOs will emerge in which a new type of continental solidarity can flourish.

The EU may well be doomed, but Europe certainly is not.
