Guide to Oman Oral History Interviews

The following guide provides an overview of Oman oral history video interviews from two projects led by Fiona Warton to interview veterans from the Sultan's Armed Forces who served in Oman in the 1960s-1970s. The project 'Reflections on the Oman Insurgency 1965-1975 and its renaissance' and 'Frontier Force: Reflections on Securing Dhofar for Civil Development 1972-79'.

The interviews are only available for viewing in the Archive reading room (remote access through digital copies is not supported) and permission is required from the Warton family for quotation in publication. Permission is not required for quotation in unpublished material (such as student essays, dissertations and theses) providing the source is acknowledged. Please also note that none of the interviews have been transcribed. The length of each interview is indicated in the catalogue descriptions below.

Please also note that these interviews are covered by UK General Data Protection Regulations and access is dependent on compliance with the Data Protection Act 2018. For further information on applying for access, please contact the archivist.
